西方神話與傳說－羅浮宮珍藏展

第二展覽區：圖書文獻大樓1樓特展室

展覽時間：2012.01.20~2012.05.14 9:00am~5:00pm

「傳承自希臘羅馬的神話不僅是有點可怕的、或迷人的、高潮迭起的故事全集，也是解釋人間世界、大自然與宇宙星辰運作的一種方式，神話形塑了所有的西方思想，且滲透深入我們的語言。這就是為什麼我們認為應該和亞洲觀眾一起分享這些希臘羅馬神話暨文學的精彩故事，其中一些美麗的故事提供我們的詩人、雕刻家、畫家和音樂家豐富的創作養分，尤其從十七世紀起重新研究法國古文學之際，神話更是藝術家汲取靈感的重要泉源。」

---法國羅浮宮博物館館長 Henri Loyrette 2011.10

本展覽以古希臘神話為主題，不斷重覆地繪製、創作所展現的想像力，將展出百項展品，主要來自法國羅浮宮博物館，及圖爾美術館、迪戎美術館、阿哈斯美術館、安格爾美術館、安德烈·迪利芎藝術暨工業博物館、凡爾賽宮七家博物館之珍藏。展件包含古希臘時期的陶器、龐貝古城的溼壁畫，到十六至十九世紀如大衛、安格爾、卡諾瓦等大師的繪畫、雕塑藝術珍品。

書畫特展

清丁觀鵬摹顧愷之洛神圖

第一展覽區（正館）：208陳列室

展覽時間：2012.01.10~2012.03.25

丁觀鵬（活動於1726-1770年），任職清宮畫院，曾從郎世寧學畫。〈洛神圖〉是以曹植（192-232）著名的愛情詩篇〈洛神賦〉為題材所創作的繪畫作品，歷代以此為文本的畫作不計其數，丁觀鵬奉敕臨摹內府所藏〈摹顧愷之洛神圖〉卷雖是摹作，然山水造型已自古典畫樣轉為成熟的金碧山水，並以西洋明暗設色法與定點透視法，營造合乎視覺經驗的畫面。清宮畫院以古典圖式與傳統母題，融合西方畫技，展現鮮明的時代性格，正是清宮「摹古創新」的最佳範例。

Western Mythology and Legends – A Special Exhibition from the Louvre Museum

Exhibition Area II : Library Building 1F
Exhibition Dates: 2012.01.20~2012.05.14 9:00am~5:00pm

"Ancient Greek mythology is a bit frightening, but also quite fascinating. Such myths describe the complete structure of the human world, natural world, and universe, while also forming the principal Western ideologies and language, thus influencing the rich roots of our poets, sculptures, artists, and musicians. This is why we believe we should share with our Asian audience the splendid Greek mythologies. There has been a significant re-evaluation of French literature since the 17th century, which serves as an important source of inspiration for artists."

—Henri Loyrette, President-Director of the Louvre Museum, October 2011

This ancient Greek mythology exhibition features one hundred exhibition items from seven museums: Musée du Louvre, Musée des beaux-arts de Tours, Musée des beaux-arts de Dijon, Musée des beaux-arts d' Arras, Musée Ingres de Montauban, Roubaix, La Piscine – Musée d'art et d'industrie André Diligent, and Musée national des Châteaux de Versailles et de Trianon. Displayed pieces range from ancient Greek potteries to frescoes from Pompeii to 16th – 19th century paintings and sculptures by masters such as Jacques-Louis DAVID, Jean-Auguste-Dominique INGRES, and Antonio CANOVA.

Special Painting and Calligraphy Exhibition

Ding Guanpeng's "Copy of Gu Kaizhi's 'Nymph of the Luo River'"

Exhibition Area I (Main Building): Gallery 208
Exhibition Dates: 2012.01.10-2012.03.25

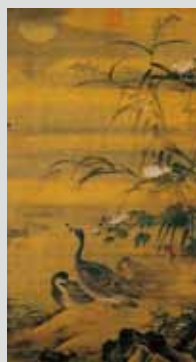

Ding Guanpeng (1726 – 1770), who worked in the Painting Academy of the Qing dynasty court, once studied art under Giuseppe Castiglione. "Nymph of the Luo River" is a painting that illustrates subject matter from the famous love poem by Cao Zhi (192-232) entitled "Ode to the Nymph of the Luo River." Innumerable paintings based on the text in "Nymph of the Luo River" have been done over the ages. Although this handscroll is purportedly a copy by Ding, the landscape forms are transformed from the simple archaism of ancient classical painting and include Western methods of chiaroscuro and coloring as well as one-point perspective, rendering actual realistic images. The combination of a classical mode of representation and traditional motifs with Western painting techniques makes this painting one of the best examples of the Qing court's effort at "modeling upon the ancients to create something new."

妙奪化機－呂紀繪畫展

第一展覽區（正館）：212陳列室
展覽時間：2012.01.10--2012.03.26

呂紀（約1429-約1505），字廷振，號樂愚，亦作樂漁，浙江寧波人，是明代中葉著名的宮廷花鳥畫家。其繪畫初學明初重要的宮廷花鳥畫家邊文進（約1356-約1428），並臨賞唐宋名蹟，又曾於宮中學習林良（約1424-1500之後）畫風，發展出結合工筆與寫意，富麗和渾樸的自我風格。擅長於情境的表現，用筆以中鋒為主，圓挺有力；色澤鮮明亮麗，卻不失溫潤沈厚。

呂紀的作品深受帝王喜愛，成為學習的對象，不但影響明、清時期的花鳥畫，亦及於日本。傳世作品中，也包含他與其他宮廷畫家合作或是借用他名義的畫作，甚是偽仿之作。仿效者往往採用其畫中常見的題材，如以雁鴨、鷺鷥搭配芙蓉、柳樹及蘆葦等。或工筆設色，或水墨寫意，呈現他煙嵐瀟灑或清新明麗的氛圍特色。

Marvelous Attainments of Creation: The Paintings of Lü Ji

Exhibition Area I (Main Building): Galleries 212
Exhibition Dates: 2012.01.10–2012.03.26

Lü Ji (1429 – 1505), style name Tingzhen, sobriquet Leyu, a native of Ningbo in Zhejiang, was a famous court painter of the middle Ming dynasty. According to historical records, Lü Ji first studied the painting style of Bian Wenjin (ca. 1356-ca. 1428), an important early Ming court painter of bird-and-flower subjects and had the opportunity to view and copy famous paintings of the Tang and Song dynasties. At court Lü Ji further learned from the famous painter Lin Liang (ca. 1424-after 1500), finally developing a style of his own combining "fine-line" and "sketching-idea" manners as well as splendor and naturalness. Lü Ji excelled at rendering emotive scenes, using mostly brushwork rounded and upright with force. His colors were bright and beautiful, depicting warmth and solidity.

As a bird-and-flower painter of the court greatly admired by the emperor, his works naturally became models for study, not only influencing bird-and-flower painting of the Ming and Qing dynasties, but even that from as far away as Japan. Among the surviving works to Lü Ji's name, some are collaborative efforts done with other court painters, many are by other artists who appropriated his name. The imitations of Lü Ji's works are often on the subject of wild geese and ducks or egrets paired with hibiscus, willow trees, or reeds. Sometimes their style is close to the "fine-line" colorful works of Bian Wenjin, while others are more closely associated with the "sketching-idea" painting in monochrome ink by Lin Liang, revealing the atmosphere of clear beauty or hazy mists often seen in Lü Ji's works.

The National Palace Museum's collection of painting and calligraphy is extremely rich and exquisite in both quantity and quality. After cultural objects were moved with the Nationalist government to Taiwan in 1949, the collection has continued to expand. The number of works donated to the collection up to the present has reached almost 2,500 and more than 1,900 have been purchased. These new acquisitions to the original collection have greatly enlarged the scope of the National Palace Museum's holdings, featuring works by loyalist artists of the late Ming dynasty. In addition, there are works that the Museum has always actively sought to reinforce its holdings--paintings and calligraphies of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. This exhibit not only pays tribute to the many who have so unselfishly donated, it also displays the Museum's fine achievements in actively acquiring artworks over many years.

The NPM Special Exhibition Collection of Qing Dynasty River Maps and Archives

Exhibition Area I (Main Building) : Gallery 104

Dates : 2012.02.17 – 2012.09.30 (temporary)

Ancient China was based on agriculture. The development of agriculture not only provided people with a steady income and a livelihood, but also brought in the infrastructure for dynastic power, governments, and taxes. Thus, the ancient government invested large amounts of human labor and training into excavating water channels, building irrigation systems and water conservation projects, which bestowed long-term stability in the country. The later Qing dynasty, ruled by Manchurians, also established its culture and economy on agriculture and focused on the development of progressive river expansion ideas and technologies.

The NPM's collection of Qing dynasty river maps and archives include the governance of the Yellow, Huai, water channels, river excavation projects, and maps drawn by local officials to present to the emperor. The maps and recordings of the projects prove to be a valuable resource in teaching the people of today how the past designed the construction of water conservancy projects.

This exhibition is divided into 3 sections: Famous Rivers, Newly Renovated Water Channels, and Legendary Leaders in River Improvements. Well-known rivers and lakes from the Qing dynasty are on display to show the changes in geographical layout. Memorials on exhibit show the river control works, maps, and describe how the Qing dynasty emperors dealt with important decisions and challenges. Through the files left by the nobles (leaders), the public can understand the immense labor and efforts of these leaders of the Qing dynasty that went into controlling the rivers.

Exhibition Area I (Main Building): Gallery 103
Exhibition Dates: 2012.02.25 temporary

The National Palace museum is home to a rich collection of approximately 203,000 volumes of rare books and nearly 400,000 pieces of historical documents from the Qing archives. Large in number, these materials are of great cultural and historical value. The rare books are appealing to the audiences because of their superb craftsmanship, exquisite decorations and fine layout designs.
