

NPM website image info authorization

If you would like to use images that appear on the National Palace Museum website for academic, research, educational, publication, video broadcasting, or commercial purposes, or for any other public function, such as participating in inter-school website design competitions (whether for profit or not), you should first receive permission and/or purchase images for such from the National Palace Museum before actually using them. When using any such images, you must also clearly indicate their source and identify them with the following label: "Collection of the National Palace Museum". First consult the "NPM Image Authorization Information Management and Fees Standards", and if you have any further questions about the uses of image authorization, please contact the Marketing and Licensing Department at the National Palace Museum by telephone (+886-2-2881-2021 ext. 2155) or e-mail (janey1@npm.gov.tw). Thank you.